SKIPPING CLASS: Vanessa Davis skips with a single rope while Cindy Malloy and Kaitlyn Hewson turn the double dutch ropes, during the Archie Stouffer Jump Rope for Heart earlier this month. The fund-raiser for the Heart and Stroke Foundation allowed students to take a break from classes to skip for two hours. FIRE & WATER

A total ban on all burning continues throughout the Highlands

Low rain and the demands of the Trent Canal could see water levels drop even further

A spring without the usual amount of rainfall has resulted in twin problems for the Haliburton Highlands.

The dry conditions in area forests have caused area fire departments to impose a total fire ban throughout most of the county.

The same lack of rainfall has left area lakes far below their springtime levels. With little relief in sight and the demands of the Trent Canal system expected to begin this week, they could go even lower.

With the exception of Bicroft and Cardiff townships in the eastern section of Haliburton County, the fire ban remains in place. The ban means that all burning is forbidden, including fires for heat and cooking. The rain which fell a week ago did little to reduce the danger of wild fires.

Dysart Fire Chief Miles Maughan stated that although circumstances improved slightly over the last few weeks, lifting the ban at this point did not seem to be a wise decision. "The conditions have dried up again. It really doesn't make much sense to drop it and put it on again," said Maughan. He noted that while in attendance at a fire meeting last week, it was reported that most of the chiefs had made the decision to maintain the ban. Most municipalities have the appropriate by-laws in place to enact a fire ban within their jurisdictions.

The fire ban does not address the use of fireworks. No doubt some people will be using fireworks to celebrate the May 24th holiday weekend. Maughan suggest that anyone planning fireworks for this weekend contact their local municipality and use extreme caution when setting them off. He advised those in charge to dispose of spent tubes and fireworks holders in a safe manner afterwards.

The Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources Haliburton Fire Management Headquarters, issued a press release last week, stating that it had lifted its restricted fire zone, south of the French and Mattawa rivers, as the ministry upgraded conditions to moderate. However, the municipal fire bans are still in place. The ministry is encouraging the public to contact local municipalities to determine the status in their jurisdiction.

Lack of rain has also left water levels in the Highlands unseasonably low. Unless the area receives significant rainfall within the next week, they will get even lower as the Parks Canada and the Trent/Severn Waterway begins to draw water for the southern regions.

In the last few weeks, water levels in Haliburton County lakes have remained low, but stable at approximately 83 per cent capacity, according to Bruce Kitchen, of the Parks Canada Peterborough office. At this time of year, the average levels should be at one hundred per cent or more. "There hasn't been a lot of change," said Kitchen. "The lakes are still holding, but we can only wait another week before we will have to draw water."

Currently almost all of the dams are closed to retain water, but may be opened by next week.

Kitchen stated that the Kawartha lakes are full and navigable for the upcoming boating season. The Trent/Severn Waterway opens on the Victoria Day long weekend.

Water levels in Peterborough and further south are low, according to Kitchen, and although they have been able to get by with the current levels, he anticipates opening dams in the northern regions will be necessary by next week. The lakes in the

A fire on Deep Bay Road destroyed a house and unconfirmed reports indicate that an unidentified individual perished in the blaze. Two others were taken to hospital in Minden and at least one of the victims was airlifted to a Toronto hospital. The Fire Marshal has been called. Cause of the fire is undetermined as The Times goes to press. Neighbours say telephone lines were down because of the fire, hampering efforts to summon emergency help. The fire department arrived at the scene at about 4:50 a.m.

Secrecy surrounds police raid at Chamber of Commerce

The Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce office was closed for several hours on Friday when officers with the Ontario Provincial Police descended on the building in what appeared to be a major investigation.

The police were seen combing through the structure and the vehicle belonging to Chamber manager Brian Dean, which was parked in front of the building. Officers were observed taking photos in and around the building and Dean's car. Officers on the scene refused to comment on the purpose of their investigation.

A summer employee at the Chamber commented on Saturday that he had been instructed by the Chamber's board of directors not to say anything about what had taken place and that a statement would be issued later in the weekend. As of press time no statement has been received. Chamber President Bryan Kernohan was out of town and unavailable for comment.

Subsequent to the investigation at the Chamber office on Friday, police were seen at the home of Chamber manager Brian Dean in Haliburton. As many as five police cars and numerous officers were observed coming and going from the residence at the corner of Highland Street and Riverside Drive. One report said Dean was seen being placed in a cruiser and driven away.

The police have not issued any statement on the reason for their investigation.

Lake front property owners consider county-wide group

Meeting slated for September

Lake front property owners associations will attempt to form a county-wide organization.

Members of a variety of lake associations agreed to the idea at a meeting held Saturday at PineStone Resort. The meeting was hosted by the Haliburton Highlands Stewardship Council.

Jim McHardy of the council, who served as facilitator for the meeting, told the gathering of 30 that the intention of his group was to include lake front property owners in its mandate of stewardship of the area's natural resources.

Blair Wilkins, a lake steward for the Kennisis Lake Property Owners Association, asked those in attendance whether they endorsed the idea. He said he had examined the work of various lake stewards and the mandate of the Federation of Ontario Cottagers Association and saw a niche for this new association. "There are issues specific to our county which are not being addressed at any other level," he said suggested that this new association could help bring them to the attention of government bodies or agencies who could be of assistance.

Those in attendance identified a number of areas where such an association would be of value from water levels and water quality, combating zebra mussels and other invading species, cottage security, 9-1-1 and other matters. There was some question as to whether this new association should be concerned with political issues such as taxation. It was agreed that for the moment the focus would be on stewardship and resource matters.

The group agreed to hold a meeting in September, extending an invitation to all lake front property owner associations in the county. The Stewardship Council agreed to provide the resources to contact all the organizations and three volunteers agreed to serve as facilitators for that meeting. The meeting is scheduled for late September

Low water and dry bush

Highlands serve as reservoirs for the Trent Canal system, with water moving south via the Gull and Burnt rivers watersheds, into the system south of the Haliburton Highlands.

"We have been running at the minimum level all the way through the system, but we will have to increase the flow sometime in the next week," said Bruce Kitchen. Low water levels have been reported across the province this spring, including the Great Lakes.

Rain would help to ease the fire and water level situations, but according to Environment Canada, hot and sunny weather will prevail for the next few days. While it may be ideal conditions for outdoor activities, it is disappointing news for those concerned about the fire danger and lake levels.

Stanhope fire fighter trainee Janet Wilson hoses a smouldering stump after the department was called to a brush fire near Boshkung Lake. A pail of four day old ashes dumped in the woods, contained the spark which ignited this blaze Thursday. It took fire fighters an hour to bring the fire under control. (photo by Carol Moffatt)

Northern Lights Pavilion

Performing arts theatre is ready for debut

by Jack Brezina

Barrie Wood, left, and Curtis Eastmure in the North lights Performing Arts Pavilion: excellent sight lines, acoustics and soft seats. The gala opening takes place a month from now.

It is a dream that is about to become a reality.

The new Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion is all but finished.

Last week the 229 seats were installed and, for those who have been following the progress on a daily basis, what was once an empty hall littered with construction material had been transformed into a vision many thought they would never see.

There is still much to be done, of course, but with the seats in place on the carpeted risers, the proscenium arch defining the stage, the many other construction efforts coming to an end, the area has the look and feel of a theatre...a theatre in waiting.

Theatre supporters who have attended performances at the old high school gymnasium will be pleased, amazed and ecstatic when they see this new facility. The theatre occupies the same physical space as the old one. However, there have been numerous changes. The stage has been lowered to just a six inch rise off the former gymnasium floor. New entrances have been added stage right, one large double door behind the arch, the other a single door in front of it.

The seats, oh the seats! Anyone who has squirmed through a performance of any length on the hard wooden chairs that passed for seating before will be amazed. Cushioned back rests and seats in true theatre style. For those who unfortunately found themselves at the back of the old theatre and who fought to see more than a few faces floating above a sea of heads bobbing in front of them, will be forever grateful. The seats in the centre rows are offset to further enhance the sight lines and each of the 14 rows rests on its own tier. Rising from the floor to eight feet below ceiling height, the layout all but guarantees there will be no more craning to peer around the people in front to catch a glimpse of the action.

Curtis Eastmure, long-time member of Highlands Little Theatre, actor, director and one of the key players in getting the theatre built and Barrie Wood, professional actor, singer, dancer and the man chosen to direct the gala production which will mark the opening of the theatre in a month's time, were on hand as we toured the Pavilion Wednesday night. As they walked through the new theatre they were obviously pleased with the outcome.

Wood took to the still bare stage, striding from stage left to right as he repeated lines from productions in which he has been involved. At the back of the house, Eastmure wandered from one side to the other.

"The acoustics are amazing," he declared as Wood continued with his monologue on stage. "There doesn't seem to be a dead spot anywhere." Wood then started to clap loudly, listening for reverberation. "The old theatre was in fact nothing more than a gymnasium with a stage at one end. The sound bounced around in their like crazy. That is not the case here." Eastmure pointed out that the great sound control was in place even before the stage curtains were installed.

The two prowled about the new theatre marvelling at what had been accomplished and expressing delight in the fact that although there is work to be done, there is little doubt the Performing Arts Pavilion will be ready for its gala opening performances June 17-20. The show will highlight a panorama of talent from across the Highlands. Those people who will ultimately use the facility will bring their talents to the stage to welcome the opening of this new facility.

"This is going to be a great, intimate performing space," Wood declared.

Even the lobby has been redesigned. Two dressing rooms have been eliminated opening a spacious area for people to gather before performances and at intermission.

The theatre was built with the help of tremendous community support including grants from the provincial government, assistance from the local school board, municipality and the endowment of seats by corporations, businessess and individuals. The theatre is part of the school and in fact belongs to the school board. However, in the agreement reached prior to its construction, the theatre will be available for use by groups from outside the school on evenings, weekends and during the summer months. The school has first call on the theatre during school days when it could be used for assemblies, lectures (each of the seats has a small writing table that can be folded out of sight) or meetings.

Heather Scully is in charge of ticket sales for the Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion Gala evenings. According to Scully, seats have been selling rapidly with close to 50% of the tickets sold and some performances over 60% gone. She noted that the Sunday matinee has had the lowest sales, but pointed out that an afternoon at the theatre would be an ideal way to celebrate Father's Day, which happens to fall on the same date. "Each evening will be a gala opening with opening ceremonies and the complete show under Barrie Wood's direction," Scully said.

Seats are $25 each and include the opening ceremonies in the lobby and a reception following the performance. Tickets are available by writing to Box 359 Haliburton or from, Heather Scully in person. Each Monday she is available to take ticket orders from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at The Storeroom in Minden and Wednesday at Cranberry Cottage in Haliburton.

A valuable voice

Lake associations have an opportunity to have a major say in the future of the Highlands if they take advantage of the opportunity offered by the Haliburton Highlands Stewardship Council. The council hosted a meeting this past weekend hoping to formalize an association of associations. This gathering followed one last fall, which also held out promise of a county-wide organization.

Unfortunately, this latest meeting, failed to attract the large number of lake associations organizers had hoped for. While key lakes, like Kashagawigamog, Koshlong, Mountain, Kennisis, Twelve Mile, etc. were represented, those involved pointed out that many lakes were not there.

The value of such an association lies in its single voice for common concerns. Issues such as water levels, water quality, environmental degradation, development guidelines, cottage security and many others were suggested as possible topics with which the association could deal. However, it was also pointed out for the group's voice to be heard with authority, it must have the backing and participation of the majority of the lake associations within the county.

The Stewardship Council is going to try again this fall. It will make a concerted effort to contact up to 63 associations across the county in an effort to convince them to send a representative. Hopefully they will succeed because we feel an association of associations would be a valuable tool in representing the interests of those who have property on the lake shore. There are many issues this organization can help resolved but it has to have the backing to give its voice the credibility it needs.

Letters

Let the changes come to fruition

Editor:

First let me say that I am not a teacher basher — far from it. If it were not for the exposure to excellent teachers throughout my life I would not be writing this letter. I am writing in response to Mrs. Brezina's letter in the May 10 edition of The Times.

When one believes one has a better product than the competition it makes sense to get the message out. Unfortunately (or maybe not) many people seem to rely on commercials for information. Mike Harris is making use of this and I hope, effectively.

I have always had trouble understanding the class size discussion. If the Tories capped the student/teacher ratio at 25:1 and "Haliburton County teacher representatives regularly negotiated a student/teacher ratio of 18:1" how could one possibly get a class of 28 or more? The answer was contained in the letter and I admit the phenomenon was new to me. Non-classroom teachers!

Perhaps I should apologise for my naiveté but when I was a student all teachers taught the prescribed curriculum. Those with an interest or special ability in extracurricular activities such as sports, music etc. taught those subjects also, and taught them well, and those students needing special help received it.

Mrs. Brezina goes on to say that class sizes are smaller today than they used to be, that children are different, that society had changed. I think this is true but we only have ourselves to blame for that. A teacher can no longer "hug" a child for doing well, or conversely discipline one for inappropriate behaviour. Many of these problems may stem from a lack of discipline at home but we shouldn't expect our teachers to accept this lack of discipline without giving the "teeth" to correct it. If this is not the reason that "there are many more children with attitude, emotional, social, health, attention and learning problems than there were, then perhaps we are all regressing to a more primitive level.

Moving on to the subject of teacher testing, and I quote, "will a written test weed them out? Absolutely not! Anyone can look good on paper." Well apparently not. Before this whole conflict started I believe a nationwide test of students was carried out and Ontario students performed particularly poorly. If it were true that anyone can look good on paper, then these results would imply great cause for concern! If Ontario is producing a substandard product then let's work together to try to improve it.

The changes have only just begun. Lets not shoot them down before they come to fruition and we have a chance to evaluate them. That chance will be lost if the PC party is not re-elected.

Political spin

Editor:

I read with some interest Mr. Hodgson's article concerning teacher testing in the May 3 edition of your paper. Once again the Tories are continuing their political spin when it comes to education.

Testing teachers will not ensure good teachers or will not improve the quality of education in the classroom. Whether or not a teacher can pass a test after graduating from university seems to be a moot point and has nothing to do with the teacher's ability to teach. Rather, we should be concerned with the teacher's ability to impart his or her knowledge in a way that interests and motivates students and stimulates them to learn.

Perhaps a more sensible option to improve the quality of education would be to require teachers to engage in ongoing professional development and submit proof of their

Ambulance services will go to the lowest bidder

Editor:

Ambulance services in Ontario have always been about saving lives and helping people. The province of Ontario has downloaded the responsibility of ambulance services to the municipalities. The municipalities now face a tough decision, for which they have a few options.

They can run the service themselves. This option would keep ambulance a public service and probably not change the way service is delivered to the public. The main concern now being billing. Often we find ourselves outside of our area and responding to emergency calls because of a billing issue. The closest ambulance should always respond to an emergency call.

The municipalities can choose to amalgamate with other nearby municipalities to form more of a regional ambulance service. Right off the start this would eliminate most of the cross boundary billing issues and hopefully keep the level of paramedic training standard throughout the region. We are still left with boundaries and cross billing for calls done outside the boundary of the bigger region. (This is where a province-wide ambulance service would further reduce duplication.)

Another option available to the municipalities is to allow the lowest bidder to operate the local ambulance service privately for profit. As you can see this would be a very tempting option.

Ambulance is not about profit!

This letter is not about wages or job security. This letter is about level of training, standards of patient care and the delivery of ambulance services.

For profit ambulance service are in the business to make a profit and that is all. Their main concern is profit not patients. A for profit ambulance service will meet the bare minimum standards set out by the province and that's it. They are not going to be interested in

All letters must bear the handwritten signature of the writer and include the address and phone number for verification purposes.

Punishing the teachers

involvement every three years.

Further, it's interesting that Mr. Hodgson comments about the pressures young people have to face when the Tories have destroyed the very Guidance and Counselling programs that gave students the skills to deal with those pressures.

Mr. Hodgson talks about higher standards. How can you create higher standards in a system when you close schools, ignore "Special Needs" children and destroy the morale of teachers?

Why don't the Tories be honest for once and admit that the introduction of teacher testing is nothing more than a vendetta designed to punish the teachers for taking a stand against the destructive measures the Tories have introduced?

Grapplin' with the governor

Nobody ever went broke underestimating the intelligence of the general public.

Methinks the old three-ring huckster P.T. Barnum, was bang on the money when he made the above observation. Of course, Mr. B. lived in a less sophisticated era, when credulous rubes would pay good money to see obvious frauds like The Piltdown Man, Genuine Mermaids and other assorted circus geeks. More gullible times, right?

Don't kid yourself. We may be more scientifically advanced than the naive yokels who made P.T. Barnum rich, but our brain pans are still the same size.

After all, we elect sports stars to public office, don't we?

Sure. We took Red Kelly (a man who's main accomplishment was standing at a blue line and knocking down anybody wearing the wrong colour hockey sweater) and sent him to Ottawa as a Member of Parliament. We even made a cabinet minister out of Otto Jelinek, a man who skated like an angel and thought like Attila the Hun.

And we're still doing it. Earlier this year, our Prime Minister exhumed the Big M — Frank Mahovlich — and summoned him to Ottawa.

Mind you, we may be getting a little smarter — Chretien stuck the Big M in the Senate, where he can't do too much damage.

The Americans suffer from the same disease, but naturally, they do it on a grander scale. Last year, they handed over the keys to the Governor's Mansion iin Minnesota — to an ex-WWF wrestler.

Yep, Jesse 'The Body' Ventura is now governor of that state. This is a man who shaves his skull, packs a handgun, used to wear feather boas in the ring and thinks college athletes shouldn't have to attend classes so that they could concentrate on their cross-checks and body slams.

And how do Minnesotans feel about it? Well, it's early yet and Ventura hasn't had time to screw up really bad. Besides, he's still pretty popular as a novelty. But there's one Minnesotan who's not too pleased: Mister Garrison Keillor — the 'unofficial' governor of Minnesota.

Keillor is a humourist and the host of a U.S. radio phenomenon called A Prairie Home Companion — a profoundly corny weekly radio show that tickles the funnybones of more than two million radio listeners each week. Keillor writes the show and the humour he produces is gentle and touching — except when he refers to Minnesota's new governor.

"A great, big, honking bullet-headed shovel-faced mutha who talks in a steroid growl" is one of Keillor's more charitable assessments.

Keillor has also suggested that Minnesota's leader "has the IQ of a salad bar" and that if Governor Ventura "was any dumber, we'd have to water him."

Ventura is smart enough to know that in a battle of wits, he'd be defenceless, so he's retaliated in a more sinister way. He's threatened to withhold state funds from Minnesota Public Radio. He's also intimated that he'll encourage the IRS to peek at Keillor's income tax returns.

Keillor's a pretty funny-looking guy himself — well over six feet tall, given to wearing geeky coke bottle horn rims, white suits, and flame-red socks. But he's not goofing around in his antipathy to the Governor.

"The Governor has said that he owns Jet Skis and loves to get out on them on a quiet Sunday afternoon and ride the hell out of them" says Keillor. "I'm the person sitting on the porch of a cabin on the shore, quietly wishing the person making that infernal buzzing noise would hit a dock and break a leg."

Jet Skis, huh? That's good enough for me. I'm rooting for Keillor on this one, but I want to be fair about it, so I'll throw some support the Governor's way too.

In fact, I'll bless him with that great old Show Biz benediction:

Break a leg, Jesse.

Ambulance must remain public

raising the standards of care or the level of paramedic training. They are not going to be interested in putting more ambulances on the road to decrease response times or increase the availability of ambulances. Let's face it folks, these things cost money and this money would come right off the top of their profit.

If you are thinking that for profit ambulance services will never happen, think again. Just to make you aware, there are already major for profit ambulance services operating in Ontario. These companies are American based and run fee for service ambulance and fire services south of the border. Is this who you want running your ambulance service? Would you allow fire departments, police services, hospitals, or education to go to the responsibility of the lowest bidder?

Why are we being downloaded at all? Because so far the public hasn't stopped it. This type of downloading is putting your health care up for sale. It is our experience that people in Ontario don't seem to see themselves as ever needing to access the ambulance service. I assure you that we are out doing emergency calls on a regular basis and these calls are not decreasing in numbers. The ambulance service is your first access to the health care system. Health care is a provincial responsibility, lets keep it that way.

Tell your MPP you want a provincial-wide public ambulance service. Get involved, sign any petition promoting public ambulance services, and call your MPP.

A bouquet of thanks

Editor:

Once again Haliburton County has been very generous in making donations to the Canadian Cancer Society during the month of April. This year in excess of $19,000 has been raised. Because cancer touches almost every family, the need for funds is vital. For a widespread canvass of our area, it requires many volunteers to make it the success this one has been.

Phyllis Woodcock, the Haliburton unit chairman for the Canadian Cancer Society for the past three years, wishes to acknowledge those who contributed money and those who were volunteer workers, especially Pat Campbell of Minden, Ron Barr of Gooderham, and Pat Simiana of Wilberforce, who organized the canvass in their areas.

Many thanks to those who sold daffodils and to Andy Glecoff of the V&S Department store for providing an ideal location, and to the many canvassers who went door to door. Also we are grateful to the Royal Canadian Legion for their generous donation.

Phyllis Woodcock

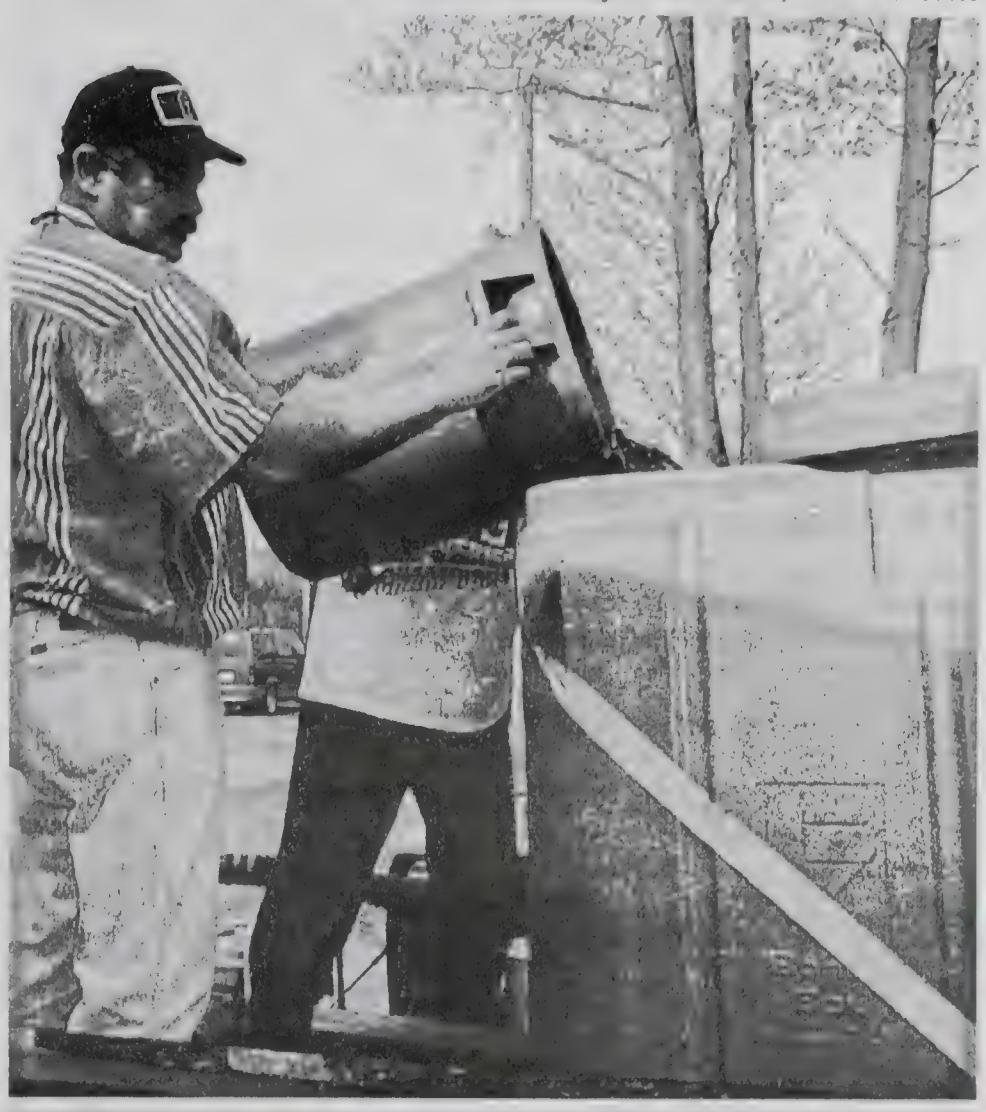
Area lakes, streams stocked with 104,000 trout

A total of 104,000 trout of various species were stocked in 75 Haliburton County water bodies over the past week and a half. A Ministry of Natural Resources helicopter delivered fish to 69 lakes, with the other six bodies of water stocked from tanks on trucks.

The majority of the fish stocked were speckled trout and splake, with 46,400 and 43,100, respectively. Rainbow raised at the Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association Fish Hatchery, totaling 2,900 and 14,000-plus lake trout were also given new homes in the area.

Along with the HHOA hatchery fish, lake trout, speckled trout and splake were transported from the MNR hatcheries in North Bay and Harwood.



INTO THE TANK: Peter Waring, acting Area Supervisor of the Minden Ministry of Natural Resources, helps load rainbow trout from the HHOA Fish Hatchery to a tank on their way to a waiting helicopter. A total of 2,900 of the locally reared rainbow trout were stocked in area water bodies.

HANDLE WITH CARE: Walt Griffin demonstrates the proper way to open the cylinder of a Smith and Wesson .357 magnum revolver to four members of the Minden Pathfinders during a classroom session at the Minden community centre on Thursday, May 6. Two days later, they had the opportunity to test their shooting skills, along with four other Pathfinders and seven Rangers, at the Haliburton County Marksmen's Club range near Kinmount.

Minden girls learn gun safety

Some members of Minden's Pathfinders and Highlands Rangers made a favourable impression on two knowledgeable area firearms enthusiasts.

Walter Griffin, a firearms instructor and avid shooter, and Bob Thomas, president of the Haliburton County Marksmen's Club, gave a firearms awareness course to several members of the Minden Pathfinders and Highland Rangers.

The senior division, aged 16 to 22, received their instruction at St. Paul's Anglican Church on May 4 and the Pathfinders, aged 12 to 15, were taught firearms safety in the scout room of the Minden arena on May 6. Both groups went to the Marksmen's Club range the following Saturday for further instruction and some target shooting.

Instructors impressed with safety and accuracy of young shooters

This was not a hunter safety training course or the course which must be taken to apply for a firearms possession licence. It was intended as an awareness session, where safety and firearms handling were taught.

Walt Griffin said the instruction came about during discussions about guns between his girlfriend Val Robinson, a Brownie leader, and other leaders of the Guide group in Minden. Robinson told the other leaders about Griffin's qualifications and the program was organized from there.

The Thursday evening session with the Pathfinders began with Griffin stressing the need for safety and telling the girls the basic safety rules which must be observed at all times. A two-part video explained the parts of a firearm and how the various actions operate. The second part of the video was hosted by actor Gerald McRaney of the television series "Major Dad" and other programs. That video focused on handgun safety and operation.

After the videos, the girls formed two groups. While Griffin instructed one group on handguns, Thomas instructed the other group on rifles and shotguns.

Within half an hour, the participants were readily identifying firearm parts and when the instructors were satisfied that the girls were ready, they were allowed to handle the firearms and taught how to open actions, safely remove magazines, check to make sure the firearms were unloaded and how to make sure there were no obstructions in the barrels.

Two hours later, the eight Pathfinders were well versed in the safe handling of firearms. They left the session with a respect for firearms that few girls their age have acquired.

Saturday, May 8 saw the Marksmen's Club range near Kinmount reserved for the Pathfinders and Rangers to put their newly acquired skills to the test. They had a chance to fire the different types of guns. They shot semi-auto and bolt action .22 calibre rifles as well as .22 calibre self-loading pistols as well as revolvers in .22, .38 special and .357 magnum calibres.

Griffin said they all shot the .357 magnum.

"I was really impressed with those girls," Thomas said. "They handled the guns safely and were really accurate."

Griffin echoed those sentiments, adding that a couple of the girls showed the potential to be outstanding handgun shooters.

"It was a rainy type of day, but no spirits were dampened," Griffin said. "Every one of them said they'd like to come back and shoot again."

He said another session is planned for some time in June to accommodate a few girls who were unable to attend the first program. When the second session is finished, about 25 girls will have acquired the knowledge to safely handle firearms.

Hunting and Fishing Heritage Act will protect outdoors enthusiasts' rights

Chris Hodgson, Victoria-Haliburton's MPP, said he has seen some positive changes in the way the Ministry of Natural Resources works with organizations such as the Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association. The former Natural Resources Minister spoke at the HHOA spring meeting at the West Guilford Community Centre on May 1.

Hodgson outlined some of the accomplishments which have been the result of a co-operate effort between the MNR and outdoors partners.

"We have a different way of administering licence fee money and funds generated from (fish and wildlife violation) fines," he said. "The other parties said it couldn't be done."

Anglers have more fishing opportunities in Haliburton County because 23 lakes have had the slot size regulations removed. He noted also, that hunting opportunities have been expanded through the increase in the archery season by two weeks, until the end of November.

Hodgson said the Lands for Life process preserved hunting, fishing and trapping heritage,

"We can't guarantee what future governments will do about hunting rights in Lands for Life designated areas," Hodgson said. He added that his government's mandate for the process was balanced and sustainable land use. "We've met our commitment and our plan," he added.

He added that hunting and fishing rights will be enshrined by the Hunting and Fishing Heritage Act.

The provincial government has also made strides in preserving the outdoors heritage by passing a hunter anti-harassment law.

The hunter apprenticeship program, which allows boys and girls as young as 12 years of age to participate in hunting activities under strictly controlled circumstances. It was a bold step and one that met with opposition from other political parties.

Later in the meeting, Pat Kennedy pointed out that the provincial Liberal Party has vowed to repeal that program if it is elected. The Liberals, he said, also fully support the implementation of Bill C-68, the federal gun control law that requires registration of all firearms.

Hodgson said the Progressive Conservative Party will continue to oppose Bill C-68 and refuse to commit provincial resources to a bill he called "foolish, misguided policy."

"We need to concentrate on crime and criminals, not hunters, trappers and farmers," he said. "We won't be involved in registration."

He said his party will continue to support Ontario's hunting and fishing heritage.

"We have brought in a lot of things to promote hunting and fishing,"

A few questions about the cancellation of the spring bear hunt were posed, but since the government is involved in a law suit over the cancellation, he was unable to comment.

Keith Hodgson suggested that the International Fund for Animal Welfare and the Schad Foundation, which claim credit for orchestrating the closure of the spring bear hunt, should be held accountable for economic losses.

The subject of wolves (coyotes) and the impact they are having on the deer herd was a topic of concern to many of the people who attended the meeting. One HHOA member observed that wolves killed an average of three to four deer per week in one deer yard this past winter.

Larry Hewitt suggested that a dollar or two added to deer licence fees would go a long way toward reinstating a bounty on wolves.

"We are unified with respect to our hunting and fishing heritage," told the audience.

HHSS drama club delights audience with pair of comedies

by Kevin Brezina

Two very talented companies of actors performed in the Red Hawk gym Friday and Saturday evenings, entertaining parents, teachers, their fellow classmates, and making this reporter laugh.

Both plays were performed recently at the Sears drama festival in Bradford, where all received compliments from the festival adjudicators.

"This is a Play", written by Daniel MacIvor, directed by Darrell Dobson, and starring Jenn Orpana, Kate Campbell, Devon Dart, and Amanda McClenaghan received the prestigious Don McFaden congeniality award, and placed fourth out of a field of 12 plays, an impressive showing considering this was the first year HHSS sent a company to the Sears Festival.

Devon Dart also received an individual award of merit for his hilarious portrayal of a Southern drifter with a head of lettuce tattooed on his chest. The play was simply about three heads of lettuce being reunited as Jenn Orpana explained at the performance's beginning. The actors alternated between speaking their thoughts and the lines of the play. At the sound of a bell the dialogue switched, with the hilarious repetition of Kate Campbell's tentative beginning of every speech juxtaposed with Amanda McClenaghan's beatnik rambling about the ownership of ideas. The play was hilarious and rounded out the evening nicely.

Both plays absolutely hilarious

This Is A Play shared the stage with "This is a Test" by Stephen Gregg, directed by Trish Wooton and starring Chris Ratz, Mike Johnson, Heather Little, Casey Ogle, Logan Roberts, Ryan Day, Ryan White, Kim Varty, Kate Foulds, Sarah Bloomfield, Adam Wilkinson, Vanessa Smith, and Chris Morgan.

A hilarious tale of a boy's midterm examination woe, This is a Test provided the audience with an intriguing look into the mind of a procrastinator on a bad day, with all the hilarity of school hi-jinx.

Special mention also to the stage crew of Ann Raback, Jocelyn Eastmure, Amanda Robinson, and Jenn Moynes. Both plays were absolutely fabulous and I do hope they will perform them again so more people can savour the madness of Haliburton Highlands Secondary School drama.

Soyers Lake Association can appeal water permit

The Ministry of Environment will allow the Soyers Lake Property Association to appeal a permit which would allow the withdrawal of water from Little Soyers Lake. According to the Soyers Lake spokesman, David Pengelly, the appeal is scheduled to be heard at the end of June.

The association requested the appeal after the ministry issued a permit which would allow the owners of a large tract of land adjacent to the small lake to take the water for irrigation of a planned golf course. The owners of the property, known as Woodland Ranch, had received approval to remove up to 2.7 million litres of water a day from Little Soyers Lake. The lake has been described as little more than a pond, surrounded by extensive wetlands, which feeds a small creek running into Soyers Lake.

According to Pengelly, the Soyers Lake association launched the appeal after learning about the permit from the Ministry of Environment website. "We were concerned that as downstream residents, we hadn't been notified about this application," Pengelly said. The association is also questioning the amount of water which has been approved; has requested that, if approved, a third party monitor the process; and that the records of the daily water withdrawal be open to inspection by the organization. The association is also requesting that any permit be limited to a five year span. The request which has been approved grants the permission for 25 years.

The association is requesting that a study be carried out to determine the environmental impact of the request and that they have input into the design of the study.

Previously, Pengelly said the property owners' group was concerned about the impact of the golf course and the fertilizers, herbicides and other chemicals used to maintain it, since the lake on which they own property is downstream from the property.

Pengelly said now that the appeal has been granted, there will be an opportunity for the land owners, lake association and MOE to meet informally to determine if the issues can be resolved without a formal hearing. He said, if a hearing of the Environmental Appeal Board takes place it will likely be heard by the vice chair, Knox Henry.

Pengelly said the association is concerned that the withdrawal of that amount of water on a steady basis could result in the lowering of the level of Little Soyers Lake to the point that the connecting creek will dry up and adjacent wetlands will be adversely affected.

"We haven't heard anything new from the ministry or the land owner," Pengelly said. "We expect something next week about the preliminary meeting."

The lake association spokesman said they had received a great deal of support from the community regarding its request to appeal. "This issue is very much alive," he commented.

44 YEARS AGO

Many changes have taken place in the County over the last 44 years and Elstone Motors has been a part of the community's evolution. In 1989 Elstone Motor Sales moved from downtown Haliburton to our new location one mile west of town on Highway 118 where we have plenty of room for our extensive inventory of new and used vehicles. Our modern facilities and years of experience in serving the public enable us to meet our customer's needs readily and efficiently. As a part of the Chrysler's Five Star Service, Elstone mechanics are Chrysler trained and certified . Our use of genuine Mopar replacement parts and our strong commitment to your convenience, along with our courteous attention and competitive pricing, are the some of the reasons we have developed genuine friendship's with our customers.

THE BEST IN ONTARIO.

Elstone Motors is among a select group of Chrysler dealers. Our sales department has been consistently recognized by Chrysler and by our customers (through customer satisfaction surveys). The Chrysler Canada Sales Satisfaction Award has been awarded to our dealership for a number of consecutive years. We recently were awarded the Platinum Gold Key Lease Award. These awards are presented to a only a few of Chrysler's top rated dealerships and therefore give the staff and management a feeling of pride in a job well done and the incentive to continue providing our customers with the top quality service they have recognized in us.

GOOD SERVICE DOESN'T JUST HAPPEN

As the county and our clients have grown and changed over the last 44 years, we have tried to offer the services and products to meet their changing needs. Today a lot of people have cellular phones for business communications, personal use and as a safety precaution. In order to offer our customers this convenience we have a Bell mobility representative on hand to supply our customers with the telephone and program they require. Due to the growth of the Haliburton County Snowmobile Associations trail system, more and more cottagers are enjoying the Highlands year round. Elstone's is pleased to offer our customers a licensed snowmobile mechanic so we can help keep them on the trail as well as on the road.

Over the last few years we have tripled our staff to keep pace with our business growth in order to provide the level of service that allowed us to grow in the first place. We would like to thank all our staff for their dedication. Gary Burk a thirty-three year employee at Elstone's has seen many changes over the years. In charge of a staff of five people in our service bays, Gary has taken numerous courses to stay up to date on the latest improvements on the new car market. With twenty-seven years of experience in the service department Dick Burke has the knowledge to meet your service needs.

LOOKING TO THE FUTURE

We are pleased announce that a number of plans are underway for the future expansion and improvements to our dealership. With your continued patronage and support we are looking into an automated wash bay, a car rental outlet and a 4 acre expansion facility for pre-owned and auction vehicles.

Many many thanks to our patrons who have made this all possible

In appreciation for your support during the coming weeks every customer's work order will be placed in a drum for a weekly draw. You could win a $50.00 certificate for a local business compliments of Elstone Motor Sales. (weekly draws start June 4 and end July 23)

A day in the life of a shadow

by Karyn Christian, Times Job Shadow

Sometimes skipping school pays off!

The grade seven students of A.S.E.S took time off school to learn about why jobs are important and to try stuff on their own, but also to learn lots and have fun!

The students at Archie Stouffer were involved in Job Shadowing. It was a guidance assignment for the grade sevens, to find employers that were willing to spend some time talking about what they do in their work.

''It's not about jobs, it's about the world at work,'' said Archie Stouffer Guidance Teacher Maureen Bennett. I learned about what they really do at the Minden Times and it seems harder than it looks!

Sterling Crowe shadowed at IDA His favourite thing that he had done was to use the'' Price Gun." He also said that it was interesting and that when he is older he is looking forward to this job

Matt Allore and Sean Keaney were doing something different. They were shining cars at the Keaney Plymouth Chrysler. They both said they were interested to run their own business as a car dealer. Lyse Cazabon Keaney, Sean's mother, said that it gives them an interest and it was fun.

I also stopped by the TD bank to talk to Crystal Fortner. She said that ''It's neat to learn about different jobs," and was having lots of fun learning what to do in a bank.

Andrew and his dad Jim Carrell looked liked they had a good day working on trucks and cars at the Minden Collision. He also said that he was interested in working there in the future. I'm sure that everyone had a fun time Job Shadowing and learned a lot and they are probably waiting for next year to try it again. Maureen Bennett has been running the program for at least five or six years now and is hoping to continue "I went from being a full time guidance worker down to one period every two days ,its going to be difficult!"

I think the program should go on, it is a great experience for everyone to see what they do and maybe even try doing something on their own. I hope that everyone that Job Shadowed had fun and learned something they didn't know before because I know I did! Thanks to everyone at the Minden Times, I learned a lot and had fun!

NEW PUBLISHER: There was somebody sitting in the boss' chair last week as Job Shadow Karyn Christian took a tour of The Times to find out how the newspaper comes together.

ON DUTY: Andrew Carrell and his dad put in a full day at Minden Collision.

Jury still out on feasbility of Fish and Wildlife Commission proposal

Pat Kennedy, chairman of the provincial Fish and Wildlife Advisory Board, was one of the guest speakers at the Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association's spring meeting. He outlined what the board has been doing and explained how the proposed Fish and Wildlife Commission would operate, if the provincial government decides to go ahead with the proposal.

Kennedy called the Fish and Wildlife Advisory Board a bridge between resource user groups and the bureaucracy. He noted that the board didn't have much input into the Lands for Life process. He noted that the hunting and fishing heritage has been preserved in the newly created parks.

Kennedy, who is a former president of the HHOA, said the association is at the forefront with its hatchery project and other fish and wildlife projects, but he added that the status also has its drawbacks.

"There are a lot of people watching to see us fail," he said.

Kennedy commended HHOA President Larry Hewitt for his commitment and dedication. Hewitt was the chairman of the Hatchery Committee and a driving force behind the establishment of the hatchery, which is located on Haliburton County Road 1 near Haliburton Village.

Kennedy pointed out that the Ministry of Natural

"We'll Be There When You Need Us"

Kennedy explains process

Resources can no longer deliver the services that it has in the past and must now rely on partnerships with resource users like the members of the HHOA. Groups such as the HHOA, he said, help stretch the available dollars.

During the process of researching the possibility of setting up an independent fish and wildlife commission, 39 such commissions in the United States and the programs in Quebec and Alberta have been analyzed. In the U.S., Michigan is praised as a state which defends its hunting and fishing heritage.

"This is a huge mandate," Kennedy said. "We have 250,000 lakes in Ontario."

Funding for a Fish and wildlife Commission would be a big issue. Responsibility is another concern.

"A stand-alone commission would split the ministry down the middle," Kennedy said. "Regulations have to be approved by the Board of Management. It would require a change in legislation, which would be time consuming. It would be up to the government of the day to decide how much authority it is willing to give up."

There are still a lot of questions to be answered.

Native issues must be addressed at the federal level, according to Kennedy. The $15 per year fishing licence, he says, is a joke, but whether anglers would support an increase remains to be seen.

A commission, if it is established, would report to cabinet, where major changes would have to be approved.

Kennedy said he thinks the commission could "start off slowly and increase its responsibilities as time goes on," and move to the next level when it's ready to evolve.

A project that Kennedy says he is especially interested in getting started in Haliburton County is the reintroduction of wild turkeys. The wild turkey reintroduction program in other parts of the province have been very successful and he says there are areas within the county where the birds should thrive.

Thalia's Voice celebrates women and the arts

Music and muse will prevail this weekend at the inaugural Thalia's Voice festival of women and the arts. Organizers of the festival hope that Minden will be the Mecca for female artists for the three day festival of songs, art, spoken word and more.

Music may be the highlight of the women's festival, but it is not the aspect. There will also be several workshops for women, an arts and crafts show at the Minden arena, as well as a cabaret stage, accommodation at the Kinark Outdoor centre, and much more.

Dozens of musicians, singers, and spoken word performers sent in audition tapes, that were judged by regional adjudicators in Haliburton, Peterborough, Ottawa, Kingston and Toronto. Each region held a concert to determine a top performer, which would represent the area at Thalia's Voice in May. On Friday evening, these regional winners will compete in the final challenge, to determine the winner of Thalia's quest.

The weekend will come to a crescendo at the Saturday evening performance of Head in the Clouds and the Cindy Church Trio. As well, the winner of the Thalia's Quest competition will perform with the headlining acts.

"Things are really starting to pick up," said organizer and performer Heather McLeod. A group of volunteers and organizers have been working since the new year to put the concert together, with the hopes that not only would it promote women in the arts, but promote Haliburton County as well. Thalia's Voice is one of the many ventures being undertaken by the newly formed Haliburton County Community Co-operative.

Tickets are still available with a variety of different packages and are available by call 1-888-215-4019. Organizers hope that anyone interested in coming to the women's festival will buy their tickets early to avoid missing this May inaugural weekend.

HHSS students win Envirothon bronze medal

by Ariel White

When it comes to the environment, Haliburton Highlands Secondary School students know what they are talking about. A team of Hal High students recently took home bronze in the Provincial Envirothon at the Leslie Frost Centre.

The Envirothon competition tests teams of secondary school students on their knowledge of the natural environment by focusing on the basics — soil, water, forestry and wildlife. As well the competition features an environmental issue for students to focus on and study, this years topic being forest fires.

The team of Jennifer Ferguson, Eileen Shim, Ainsley Hoare, Adrian Rawlings and Jason Scott placed third in the regional Envirothon competition, which advanced the group to the provincial contest, where the team received a bronze medal. A second team from Haliburton also placed well in the regional meet, coming in ninth place. The team members included Ainsley Heyes, Shannon McGuire, Graeme Fawcett, John Craig and Jason Mayers.

During the competition, teams travel to various stations, where they must solve problems and come up with solutions involving the fundamentals of environmental science. The winning provincial team will represent Ontario at the International competition in the United States.

BRONZE WINNERS: The HHSS team of Jennifer Ferguson, Eileen Shim, Adrian Rawlings, Ainsley Hoare, and Jason Scott picked up a bronze medal at both the regional and provincial Envirothon competitions.

HHSS CONTENDERS: Another team from Hal High placed well in the regional Envirothon, receiving a ninth place finish. The team members included, Shannon McGuire, Ainsley Heyes, Graeme Fawcett, John Craig and Jason Mayers.

Barnardo Home Children reunion planned for June 6

-submitted-

Reunions are often attended with mixed feelings. In addition to groups of people celebrating their common history, the events are also reminders of those who are no longer with us. These gatherings, however, are important for continuity of our history, both as families and as a nation.

In a movement to protect the heritage of the Barnardo Home Children, who contributed greatly to Canada's development earlier this century, they and their children and grandchildren are holding reunions across the country to tell their stories and to reconnect with friends and often, long lost siblings.

Between the years 1882 and 1925, 30,000 orphan children were sent from England to Canada by Dr. Thomas John Barnardo, to begin new lives in this vast country. These young immigrants, known as the Barnardo Home Children, ranged in age from infancy to 14 years, and stayed in the various homes Barnardo organized until they turned 18. Some of the children knew nothing of their families, but two thirds of them had families that were either ill or who had fallen on hard times.

Anyone who is a Barnardo Home Child, or a relative of one, or who knows of one, is urged to let them know about the reunions coming up in June. Collette Bradford, head of the Barnardo Aftercare in England, will be attending reunions across Ontario. Bradford keeps records of Barnardo Home Children and conducts searches for their families. She took over the position in 1990 and has been influential in getting records so families could track their missing relatives.

There will be a reunion in Peterborough on June 6 at 1 p.m. at the Little Lake Cemetery Chapel for a services to bless the new headstone honouring the children buried there. Then, attendees will go to Peter Robinson College on George Street, between Barnardo Avenue and Parkhill Road, for the dedication of a Heritage plaque recognizing the Hazelbrae Home, which stood on that property and was home to 10,000 children from 1884 to 1922.

A service of remembrance will be held at George Street United Church, with refreshments to follow.

Everyone is welcome to attend. Please R.S.V.P. by May 19 to Mrs. Ivee Succe at 705-742-7523.

Teen mom hopes her experience is a lesson for others

Monica Miles is a busy 18 year-old. Although many of her friends are searching for summer jobs and combing through college calendars, Monica's time is spent looking after her three month old son Ethan.

Having a child at such a young age has certainly affected Monica's outlook. She feels that although it is too late for her, young men and women in Haliburton County need more information and support when it comes to sex and the prospects of parenthood.

Monica is concerned that there isn't an adequate system of support for teenagers in the area. "People aren't going to buy condoms at the drugstore where their parents' friends work. There should be condom machines in the high school," said Miles. "At first you would have kids goofing around but it's better to advocate safe sex than to have to worry about daycare."

Monica took a Parenting class in high school and didn't find it particularly useful. "We were supposed to carry 'flour babies' around (a bag of flour, simulating a baby). Flour babies don't teach you much. They don't cry or spit up. I think I put mine in my locker," said Miles.

Monica says that she isn't the only new young mother in the area. She knows of nearly a dozen other girls that are going to have, or have recently had babies.

Although she tried to go to school while she was pregnant, it soon proved to be too difficult, and Monica was forced to quit. She is only four credits short of her grade 12 diploma and is currently taking correspondence courses. She hopes to continue her studies so that eventually she attend college. "It's really tough to learn this way," said Miles.

She has been back to school recently, speaking to a Parenting class about what it is really like to have a child at a young age. Monica isn't too sure if the message really got through. She says that even bringing Ethan to one class for just an hour doesn't convey the seriousness of parenting.

In a perfect world, she feels that a daycare centre in the school would be ideal. If a daycare was available, student parents could volunteer during spare periods and other students could also help, gaining a better sense of the responsibilities that come with parenting. "This might deter kids from having sex if they knew what it was really like," she said. "I think it would also bring a lot of kids back to school."

Monica considers herself lucky to at least have the support of family and several community agencies. She has lost contact with many friends, who now have different schedules and priorities.

Monica hopes that things change and people realize that teenage pregnancy is an issue in Haliburton County.

"I looked at my options and there weren't many. It's too late for me but if one person was helped it would be a start," she said.

Improved Access to Algonquin Park from Haliburton County

Algonquin South welcomes you

For many years the Kingscote Lake access point at the extreme southern tip of Algonquin has needed improvements to the road, parking and washroom facilities. In the past year, there have been significant changes with the able assistance of the Algonquin Forestry Authority.

The existing road has been widened and resurfaced with gravel, a parking lot has been constructed at the access point, and vault toilets added. The existing cottage-camp at the access point was purchased by the Nature Conservancy of Canada (NCC) on behalf of Ontario Parks under the Legacy 2000 project. The NCC raised matching funds to acquire the land and all buildings were then removed. The disturbed site has been converted to a small cluster of six campsites and is now open with these sites available from the last Saturday in April to Thanksgiving.

On Kingscote Lake, canoe campsites were added as well as additional campsites on Scorch Lake and Branch Lake. There are now a total of 23 Interior canoe campsites accessible from the access point.

The existing hiking trail at High Falls is now serviced with parking for 20 vehicles and vault toilets. The trail head is located about 10 km from the Kingscote Lake access point. A short mountain bike trail of 6.5 km (13 km round trip) and moderate degree of difficulty can also be one km side trail that provides access to Gut Rapids which is a narrow scenic canyon on the York River.

For those Interior canoeists who visit Scorch Lake, there is a hiking trail from the south end of the lake. It is a short, vigorous climb to a high rock ridge with a spectacular view of the lake and terrain to the north.

Horseback riding is available for day trips. The Trails begin opposite the High Falls parking lot and head north on existing logging roads past the historic Bruton Farm and up to Lostwater Lake. The Bruton Farm was a depot that provided supplies for the logging camps at the turn of the century. For information on horseback riding, please call South Algonquin Trails at (800) 758-4801.

In the winter there are over 80 km of groomed and wilderness cross-country ski trails that are maintained in the Algonquin South area by Algonquin Nordic. For further information please call (705) 745-9497 or check out their web site: http://www.auracom.com/~wilderness/crosscountryskiing.html

To reach Algonquin South from the Haliburton area, access is via Harcourt:

Take Highway 121 east from Haliburton 23 km to the flashing yellow light 4 km past Tory Hill. Go north 15 km on County Road 648 to Harcourt. One kilometre past Harcourt, turn left on Elephant Lake Road (County Road 10). Travel 12 km north to the Kingscote Lake Access Point Road, turn left and follow this road 7 km to the Kingscote Lake Access Point. The High Falls Parking Lot is 2 km east of the intersection of the Kingscote Lake Access Point Road and Elephant Lake Road.

Please remember when visiting Algonquin South that you require either daily vehicle or and Interior camping permit. Permits, canoe rout maps, information and other publications are available from the junction of Elephant Lake Road and Kingscote Lake Access Point Road.

These improvements in Algonquin South will be attractive to those for a variety of activities, or for the inexperienced canoeist who wants to try a relatively easy canoe camping experience. The travel time to this area of the Park is about one hour less for those coming from the Bancroft area when compared to the campgrounds along Highway 60.

For further information on Algonquin South please call Algonquin Park Information at (705) 633-5572 or the Park's web site: http://www.algonquinpark.on.ca

Dinner/Auction raises $14,400

Organizers of the annual dinner and auction to raise funds for the Kinmount Mill Project were thrilled with this year's event. Proceeds from the 1999 event, held on May 2 at the Galway Hall were a record $14,400.

The sell-out crowd was urged on by auctioneer Orval McLean to part with their hard-earned cash for a worthy cause.

The event is organized by the Kinmount Committee for Planning and Economic Development.

Somerville Reeve Dianne Austin announced another windfall for the project, which has the goal of restoring the mill in Kinmount. She told patrons of the event that the federal government, through MP John O'Reilly's office, will contribute $80,000 to the project. Human Resources Development Canada is providing the funding, with the condition that the local community come up with $35,000.

The funds will be used to stabilize and square up the structure.

Clayton Cameron holds up a Michael Dumas limited edition print while auctioneer Orval McLean coaxes the bidders to part with their cash.

Tom Lang looks over some of the silent auction items at the fund-raising dinner and auction at the Galway Hall on May 2. The event raised $14,400.

Don't get fooled by phony 50s

by Ariel White

Could you see the difference between a real and a counterfeit twenty dollar bill? Several Minden business owners and employees have a pretty good idea, after they attended a counterfeit money seminar held last week.

Constable Laura Ostler of the Minden OPP showed the group of about 25 people several examples of counterfeit ten, twenty and fifty Canadian dollar bills. She stated that although many of the bills were not accurately reproduced, many people wait until cashiers are busy to try to slip them through. "And now with computer technology and laser printers it is getting harder to tell," said Ostler. She said that the usual bills are 20 or 50 dollars, but now 5 and 10 dollar bills have become more prevalent. Although this area has not suffered the ill effect of counterfeit currency, Ostler noted that a fake bill was recently found in a local bank deposit recently.

There are several methods to determine whether or not a bill is counterfeit. The Bank of Canada, has established numerous security features on each bill to thwart counterfeiters.

- The gold sticker on the upper left hand corner of larger denominations, will turn green when the bill is moved back and forth. The sticker cannot be peeled off. Some fake bills have stickers that are of poor quality.
- Real currency has small green dots, called planchettes, placed randomly throughout the bill. These can be peeled off without damaging the bill. Counterfeits will sometimes have these spots, but they are merely ink and cannot be peeled.
- Since many fake bills are merely photocopied, when they are folded, white creases will appear. Real currency is lithographically printed, which leaves a raised edge throughout the bill. There is a distinct difference in texture between a real and counterfeit bill.
- The quality of the counterfeit, despite the technological improvements, is not as good. Look for concentric circles in the pupils of the figurehead on the bill. There is also microprinting throughout, that when photocopied cannot be accurately reproduced.
- There are ultraviolet detectors available to business owners, that will detect counterfeit bills. These bills will glow under ultraviolet light where the real bills do not. A combination of all of the features will easily detect a counterfeit bill.

American currency can be detected using similar methods. Their bills, although identical in colour, have a specific printing method with great detail. They also contain fine blue and red threads that can be removed, similar to the Canadian planchettes. This was of particular interest to the group of concerned business owners and workers, as the tourism season gears up.

Constable Ostler told the group that if someone suspects they have been given a counterfeit bill, try to get a description of the person, as well as a licence plate number. Many people may simply not realize that they had a fake bill, but those who knowingly pass off counterfeit money will probably want to leave the area as quickly as possible. She recommends bringing any suspect currency to the local OPP office. Unfortunately, counterfeit money is not refundable.

Container Planting

Your balcony can become a garden. Really. You just have to think of trellises instead of trees, vertical rather than horizontal, and containers instead of holes in the ground.

Container planting is ideal not only for small spaces but also for grouping plants with different soil requirements in yard.

Trellises will support vines grown in containers on the ground. Baskets can hang from ceilings. Large clay pots can be nestled in corners on the floor. Planters can always hang from railings, but flower boxes or shelves secured one above the other will allow you more room. You can plant in almost anything from wicker baskets to copper pots or old rusty wheelbarrows. Just remember, bottoms of containers need small drainage holes. A layer of pebbles or pieces of broken clay at the base will allow seepage. Fill the pots with a moisture-retaining soil. Soil that is enriched with slow-releasing fertilizers works best. Feed plants every two weeks. Some container plants need almost daily watering in summer heat. If the soil is dry one inch from the top, it needs watering.

It's "shocking" what some people do to their plants

Transplanting everything from seedlings and bedding plants to shrubs and even large trees can be a deadly experience for the plants involved. The culprit is transplant shock, and it's responsible for the untimely death of many plants that were perfectly healthy when they were brought home from the nursery or garden centre.

Imagine yourself plucked from your happy home and dropped in the middle of a strange land, complete with an equally strange diet, that either sets your digestive tract on fire — or is about as nourishing as bread and water. Sound outrageous? You bet it does! Well, that's pretty much what you're doing when you dig a hole, drop a plant in it, and splash a bit of water on top. For even the hardiest of plants, transplant survival becomes an uphill battle.

The good news is that you can greatly minimize the risk of plant transplant shock simply by using a uniquely formulated, transplanting fertilizer. Choose a good one and it'll not only save your plants — it'll also save you a lot of time, work, frustration, and money.

The best of these specialty products usually have a high-phosphorous content, which dramatically lessens the risk of transplant shock. Concentrated plant hormones and selected starter nutrients actively promote germination and growth in seed beds, as well as healthy root development in mature trees, shrubs, and root stock. Most transplanting fertilizers come in concentrated form, ready to be mixed with water and used generously during the transplanting process. One product worth considering is Transplanter 5-15-5 liquid root stimulator. It features a special rooting hormone called Roots, which has delivered impressive results in the lab and in a variety of commercial and other applications throughout Canada. Remember, a little transplant care and feeding up-front will pay growing dividends in garden pride and enjoyment.(NC)

Choosing a humming bird feeder

- Choose a feeder with a red dispenser. If it doesn't have a perch, glue a twig in such a way that birds can stand while feeding.
- Boil one part white sugar to four parts water for five minutes. Hold the red vegetable dye--all it does is introduce chemicals into the bird's diet. Cool and refrigerate the mixture. It will turn to alcohol if exposed to the sun.
- Fill one-third of the container and change the mixture twice a week. when changing the mixture, clean the feeder with soap and water to remove bacteria
- Hang a second feeder out of sight if a dominant bird claims this one as its own. Leave the feeder out until the end of September.

Food for thought

You may love the idea of attracting birds and butterflies but hate the thought of luring bees. This reaction is understandable if you don't know all the facts. There are many different species of bees, most of them solitary, friendly sorts that nest in holes in the ground or burrow in dead trees. Because they don't have hives to protect, they're not aggressive and they rarely sting. They also pollinate hordes of plant species, including the ones in your vegetable garden.

Visitors to the Minden County Town Museum will find it easier to get from building to building this year. Special clinics will vaccinate seniors against pneumonia

-submitted by the Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit-

While not much can be done to prevent pneumonia caused by viruses, something can be done to prevent pneumonia caused by bacteria. Eighty per cent of bacterial pneumonia is caused by a certain group of bacteria, Streptococcal pneumoniae. There is a highly effective vaccine that prevents infection caused by 23 strains of this bacteria group.

Dr. Alexander Hukowich, medical officer of health for the Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit explains, "about four in 10 people may have this bacteria in their mouths and throats. Most healthy people will not become ill. However, in some people, the bacteria can get into the lungs, blood or brain, causing severe, even life threatening illness. About 1,500 cases appear in Ontario each year, although experts think that there may be as many as 30,000 cases a year, most of which are treated without the bacteria ever being identified."

The vaccine is free to any person deemed to be at risk for severe illness should they become infected. This includes anyone over the age of 65 and children and adults who have certain medical conditions such as diabetes or chronic diseases of the heart, lung, kidney, liver, or immune system.

The vaccine is safe, free of side effects, and works. One shot is all most people need for life.

"However, there is one problem with the vaccine," stated Dr. Hukowich. "The vaccine is not in the people who need it." Only 57 per cent of seniors have been vaccinated in Northumberland, Victoria, and Haliburton Counties. That means that about 10,700 seniors still have not been immunized."

Dr. Hukowich wonders whether seniors are confusing the vaccine for pneumonia with the vaccine for influenza. "Seniors should be getting both vaccines, pneumonia once in their life and a flu shot every year."

Rather than allow seniors to miss this vaccination, the Health Unit is setting up a number of special pneumonia vaccination clinics for seniors this spring.

"We hope that seniors who have not received the pneumonia vaccine will make a special effort to attend our clinics," said Anne McCracken, health unit nurse. "No appointments are needed and we will let the seniors' family doctors know that they have been vaccinated by us."

McCracken explained that these clinics are for seniors over the age of 65 only. Children and adults who may also be eligible for the vaccine due to chronic medical conditions should contact their family doctor about vaccination.

A good day to you all. Outside activities really picking up now with the ongoing construction. Workers everywhere. Sure makes us feel good to see the progress day by day. Of course we have front row seats, so we are able to keep an eye out when we are not so occupied with our own activities.

Speaking of activities, we have had some good times over the last few days. Our tea party last week was much enjoyed with the Minden Legion as our hosts. Also visiting were Marjorie Watt's two daughters who entertained us with their music. Our thanks to everyone. We thoroughly enjoyed this get-together. Earlier that day our pianos were tuned -- one in the lounge and the other in the auditorium. Needless to say there is great improvement and we certainly noticed it right away that afternoon with the playing of the piano during our tea party. The following morning, Ruth and Jack Worthington were back for their regular weekly visits. We gathered in the lounge and joined them in a sing along. Welcome back Ruth and Jack, it's good to have you with us once again. Later that afternoon, the Coopers were here to provide us with some great music for our happy hour. Our thanks to them. A wonderful time was had by all.

The weekend was much enjoyed with the music of Gord Kennedy, a wonderful piano player. Thanks Gord. On Sunday, Mothers day, it was very busy here with visitors coming and going. Quite a few of us went out for the day or for supper. It was so good to see so many smiling faces with all the visitors here.

Our week began with a mother and daughter facial. We had a good turnout and those who attended reported a fun time. Pastor Dan Millard was here for our Tuesday morning Chapel and later that day a group of us gathered for our Diners' Club meeting with Kim. One of the topics discussed was the value of milk. It made for a very interesting time. We also chose our next meal of the month. Ham with mashed potatoes, cauliflower with cream sauce and for dessert strawberry and rhubarb pie. Sounds yummy doesn't it?

On Wednesday we had a special visitor, Ruth Still. We're sure many of you know Ruth as the "Queen of Rhubarb". Ruth is working on her second book about the history of the Eagle Lake area. She was here to interview three of our residents, all of whom taught school around Eagle Lake. Muriel Harrison, Nina Prentice and Lola Prentice. The book is scheduled to go to press in early December of this year. All three ladies were thrilled to be included in this upcoming book and look forward to their very own copy.

That evening a large crowd gathered for our pub night. Doris and Don Alton were here, along with Norm Graham and Lloyd Madill. What a fun time we had. Edna McElwain played her spoons and Linda joined in and gave us a few songs too. Great music.

Now we are back to Thursday once again. This morning Marg is busy in the kitchen with Peggy Packer. Wonderful aromas. We hear they are making coconut squares and raisin bars. We'll have to see if we can sample some. Today there is no tea party. Instead a full Hyland Rover has headed for Huntsville. What a great day for travel. We're sure that all who went will report a wonderful time.

Before we go we have some birthday wishes to send along:

Beatrice Britain and Alice Rivers celebrate on May 21 and Jean McDonald on May 23. Happy Birthday ladies.

And by the way, it was great to see Carol Ann Schell. She was in for a visit and catching up on all the news.

We understand there are a few residents and staff who are under the weather with one thing or another, so we send one big get well to all of you. Hope you are on the road to recovery very soon.

And that's it. Enjoyed our chat and will catch you next week.

Around the County Town

by Nora Snyder (call 286-4450 or fax 286-4425)

I had a good week. I hope you did too. All my gardens are finally weeded and the soil turned, ready for the annuals when the frost is over. It sure is chilly. I've had to have my furnace on which galls me at this time of year but the house was just too chilly. Oh soon we'll be complaining it is too hot. We're never satisfied!!

Have you noticed the tickets for sale for the Jenna Tompkins Memorial Slo-Pitch Tournament Raffle around town? All the proceeds from the sale of tickets, which cost $1, will go to the Haliburton Highlands Health Services Foundation/Minden Hospital Building Fund. This is the fourth year of the raffle and ball tournament, held in memory of Jenna Tompkins, the six year old girl who died after being thrown from her horse . Her family was so appreciative of the aid given to Jenna by our Minden hospital that they wanted to find a way to repay them. Jenna's grandmother, Laurel, told me the family also wanted to keep Jenna's spirit alive by holding this annual raffle. She was a special little girl. Laurel's last memory of Jenna is of her dancing on the beach with excitement because she was going riding. What a lovely memory to carry! Jenna's family all work together to make this fund raiser a success. The first two years they raised $2000 each year and the third year the amount doubled to $4000!! With all of our help who knows how well they will do this year!! The draw will take place on June 19 at 5:00 p.m. at the Minden Fair Grounds after an exhibition slo-pitch game between teams from Ottawa and Windsor. There are some wonderful prizes to be won, including a weekend for two at Oldham's Inn!!

A reminder that Carol Jones will be holding an evening of conversation and Bible reading every Tuesday evening in the lounge at Staanworth Court at 7:00 p.m. Everyone welcome.

There will be a hot and cold buffet supper on Saturday, May 22 from 4-7 p.m. at the Kinmount United Church put on by the church women. Adults are $10. Children 10 and under are $4. Sounds like a good reason to travel to Kinmount. Perhaps the buffet could be followed by a movie at the Highlands Cinema!! I'm all for treats!!

Another treat on the same day, namely Saturday, May 22, from 9:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. (I'm sure there is a way to combine it all) a yard and bake sale at the Lochlin Community Centre, County Road One. All these great summer events are starting to happen again. They are such a fun way to support our local organizations!!

To get you planning for next weekend, there will be a yard sale, Saturday, May 29 at the Ingoldsby United Church from 9:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. For more information please call 286-1077 or 286-1473.

A reminder of the Minden Women's Instutue meeting which will be held at Bea Berry's residence, this coming Wednesday, may 19 at 1:30 p.m. All ladies are welcome.

I haven't included a piece about our history for a while. Here is one given to me by Elizabeth Mugridge of the Haliburton Highlands Genealogy group. "Most settlers started an orchard as soon as they could, hoping to secure a good supply of fruit, especially apples. Apples were not only food but they also provided drink, spice and medicine in the settler's home. They dried apples for winter, using them for pies and puddings. They pressed them to make cider. Cider left open to the air turned into vinegar, which in turn enabled them to make pickles and relishes. Drinking apple cider vinegar and honey was thought to be one of the best ways to treat rheumatism and arthritis."

I hope you were able and are able to get out and enjoy local events during this beautiful spring wether this week!!

SCORING NEWS

Good bridge at all three locations last week. I guess it is always good for someone, namely the winners, every week!! First, at Echo Hills, the Thursday before, playing Duplicate, Muriel McIntosh and Ross Fletcher were first with 63%. Vange and Jack Croucher were second with 59% and coming third were Joan Galley and Mayme Douglas with 57%.

Then at Stanhope, on Tuesday, May 11, there was a very good turn-out. Also a reminder that the bridge game moves into the Stanhope Community Centre tomorrow for their summer home. There were no slams last week but it was good competitive bridge. Gertrud Saamen was fourth with 5000; third, Pearl Foster, with 5159; Vange Croucher, second with 5210 and Gerd Wagner, first, with the great score of 5320. Vange Croucher took her second place standing, in part by intimidating the players at the other tables with her peals of laughter during the games!!

Finally, at Park Lane on Wednesday afternoon, in the North/South position, Stella McMillan and Harold Cox were first with 55%. Maria Lehoczky and Judy Neimann were second with 54%. In the East/ West position, Vange and Jack Croucher were first with 61% and Elva Robinson and Cecille McLeod were second with 54%.

The Minden Legion scores for the week. Starting with last Thursday evening, May 6 Euchre. Margaret and Milton Fletcher kept the most lone hands in the family. Helen Lee and Harvey Bunker won the high scores. Verna McDonald and Kevin Maloney took the low scores. Maria Tschida, Pat Roussel, May Bradbury and Ralph Schroter won the other prizes.

Then playing Cribbage on Monday evening, May 10, Marie Dennie and Joey Hovey were the top scorers. Verna and Roy McDonald took home the draws.

The next day was Senior's Bid Euchre. Trudy Kroes, Marg McAfee, (said with a squeal of delight!), Howard Smith and Jack Chilton were the top scores of the day. Marie Dennie had the hidden score and Marg Albers and Howard Smith each won a moonshot. It was Marcel Roussel's birthday but the group wasn't sure he was coming so when he did, a quick "cake" was devised, a muffin with a candle in it. Everyone enjoyed the "joyful joke"!!

At Lochlin last Wednesday evening, May Hicks was high woman. Margaret Robinson was low. Bob Vick and Mervin Gilbert, respectively did the same thing for the men. Gerald Hicks won lone hands and Don Curry took the 50/50 draw.

Last Monday afternoon at St. Paul's Friendship Club, Gladys Wruth took lone hands. Helen Lee and Jack Chilton took the high scores. Marie Dennie and Jean Keliele took the lows. Bill Mosley found the hidden score and Jesse Barlow won the 50/50 draw.

Later the same day at Club 35, Harold Cox won the 50/50 draw and Helen Henderson won lone hands. Marilyn Teljeur and Cliff Woolner were high and Rhoda Woolner and Bill Jordan were low. Our own Ken Wallace took home the baloney !!

The final scores for the week are from Stanhope where they play Bid Euchre on Wednesday evenings. Loretta Lamb had a score of 283, Marion Farr had 286, Dave Lamb, 310, Trudy Kroes, 314 and on top of the heap, Bill Milford with 327!! There was an honourable mention that night also as Garth Windsor won the prize for spending the most time in the same chair!! A reminder that this week is Pot Luck, starting at 6:00 p.m. with cards following at 7:00 p.m.

Good luck to everyone at the tables!! See you here next week!!
